General Skoch Accepts Invitation to Speak at February 27th Arkansas Second Amendment March

Retired Air Force Brigadier General Bernie Skoch has accepted an invitation to address several thousand on Second Amendment Principles and Issues in Little Rock

Springdale, AR, February 1, 2010 – General Bernie Skoch, announced candidate for the U.S. House of Representatives (Arkansas 3rd District) has accepted an invitation from the Second Amendment March organization to address its members and other concerned citizens on the Second Amendment. The rally will be held from 11:00am to 4:00pm on Saturday, February 27th at Barton Coliseum in Little Rock.

General Skoch, a long-time shooter and NRA member, looks forward to the event. "The Second Amendment is the key provision of the Constitution on which every other liberty is based," he said. "America is one of the few countries in the world in which its citizens are acknowledged to have a God-given right to defend themselves. It is the duty of every citizen to protect that right, or risk every other right we have. I look forward to addressing this important meeting and explaining what we must do to support and defend ourselves, our families, and our Constitution."

The February 27th Arkansas event is preparatory to a national rally in Washington D.C. in April.
